
Boxes span the five publisher-disjoint folds. For the fine-tuned models that spread reflects a different training set as well as a different test set; the zero-shot baseline is never trained.